Also John de Bray, asserting that the jury of that assize had made a false oath, arramed an attaint against the said Hugh and Margery, and being beyond seas, appointed Henry son of Roger Bockoynt his attorney, and the taking of that attaint is still pending.

The said John son of Agnes, finding that Hugh and Margery had recovered their seisin, obtained a writ of re-disseisin against Agnes and John de Bray, by reason of that acre of land, which he has within the said shot, previously recovered by him; but he caused to be inserted in his writ of re-disseisin Hugh le Despenser, William le Mey and Roger Bockoynte, which were not contained in the writ of novel disseisin, and caused them by sinister procurement to be convicted upon that re-disseisin by men suspected by them, and to be taken, and they are still detained in prison on that account. And by pretext of this contention, the above-mentioned Henry, attorney of John de Bray and hayward (messor) of him and the said free tenants, was killed by Richard de Keynes and Roger de Tywe, household servants (manupastos) of the said Hugh and Margery by command of the said Margery, Hugh her son, John son of Agnes and John de Preuis, and secretly buried in the twilight in the fields of Faluesle and was afterwards disinterred by some persons. And Roger his father and other relatives, hearing of his death, sought everywhere, and his brother happened to find him, and on finding him raised the hue and cry; and when this came to the knowledge of the coroner of those parts he went thither, as belonged to his office, and having summoned the township in the usual way, caused inquisition to be made of the death, and it was found that he was killed by reason of the said contention. But on a second and third inquisition by the said coroner and the sheriff of the county it was found by his ill-wishers and by persons from the remote parts of the hundred, that he was disinterred by Roger his father, William le Mey, Hugh de Faluesle and Arnold le Wodeward and carried thence to the spot where he was found, and these persons are on this account detained in prison. Emma, sister of the deceased, has brought an appeal against Richard de Keynes and Reginald de Tywe of the fact and against Margery, Hugh her son, John de Hinton and John de Preuis of commanding his death, but sued the former only in the county of Northampton.

The commissioners are to examine the record and process of the above inquisition of re-disseisin, to enquire touching the death of the said Henry, to receive the ransoms due to the king for the said re-disseisin, and to determine the premises.
