Rhuddlan.

Appointment of S. bishop of Waterford, as keeper of the land and justiciary of Ireland, during pleasure.

Mandate to Richard de Exon', one of the justices in eyre in Ireland, to hold the pleas in the Bench, Dublin, and to attend to the pleas of the eyre in divers counties at convenient times hereafter.

Sept. 27.
Rhuddlan.

Power, until Christmas, to Edmund, earl of Cornwall, to admit, in place of the king, the mayor and sheriffs of London, when the time comes for them to be presented.

Presentation of Master Hugh de Camera to the church of Geytinton, in the diocese of Lincoln, void by the resignation of James de Aqua Blanca.

Writ de intendendo directed to the tenants of the manor of Frodesham for Constance, late the wife of Henry de Alemannia, the king's kinswoman, appointed, during pleasure, to the custody thereof.

Sept. 28.
Rhuddlan.

Appointment of Edmund, earl of Cornwall, to take the king's place, and to be personally in London on the morrow of St. Hilary to hear and determine the case between English merchants on the one part and merchants of the count of Flanders of the other part, according to a composition made between the king and the said count. John Bek was formerly appointed to hear the said case at Boston on the morrow of Michaelmas, but the said count wrote to the king complaining of the shortness of the time, and besought the king to preside at the case in person. This, however, the king cannot do on account of the war in Wales, and therefore appoints the said Edmund, who is to be assisted by the said John Bek, or by persons supplying his place who are sufficiently instructed in the matter.

Protection, with clause volumus, for one year, for Master Geoffrey de Everle, going beyond seas.

Sept. 24.
Rhuddlan.

Appointment of Hugh Pape, James Donati, Hugh del Post, Thorisianus Donati and Hugh Donati, and their fellows, citizens and merchants of Florence, to collect the custom on wools, wool-fells and hides in Ireland, during pleasure, to wit:—On every sack of wool of 42 stone, weighed at the king's beam,  $\frac{1}{2}$  mark; on every 300 wool-fells,  $\frac{1}{2}$  mark; on every last of hides, 1 mark, as heretofore, with full power to remove bailiffs and appoint others, to audit their accounts, and to attach delinquents before the treasurer and barons of the Exchequer in Dublin.

Sept. 26.
Rhuddlan.

Appointment of the same to the farm of the said custom for five years from All Saints, rendering yearly into the Exchequer at Dublin 1000*l.*, and in case of expenses occurring through war or otherwise in the collection they are to be indemnified by testimony of lawful men.

Mandate by writ close to the justiciary to deliver the said custom to them.
