the east gate of Oxford to enclose with a wall, for the burial of their dead, a void plot of land, 300 feet long by 90 feet broad, on the south side of the high road, which passes their churchyard, and which Henry III. caused them to raise at his own expense; provided that the high road remain 26 feet broad along the said churchyard.

By inquisition returned from the Council.

Oct. 30. Licence, after inquisition ad quod damnum made by the sheriff and coroners of Cumberland, and the keeper and bailiffs of the city of Carlisle, for J. bishop of Carlisle, to build upon a plot of land 360 feet long by 18 feet broad, between the city and priory walls on the west side, a prison for the custody of clerics, who may chance to be delivered to him by justices, or other the king's ministers, and to build other houses which he needs, either with a vault or with joists (ad voltam vel gistas), on the top of the said walls, on condition that a common passage is left sufficient for driving carts under the said houses. By K. and C.

June 25. (Wyttle.) Inspecimus and confirmation of a charter, dated at the New Temple, London, 20 June, in the second year of king John of Scotland, whereby the said king granted for life to Anthony Bek, bishop of Durham, his manors of Penreth, Scotteby, Karlston, Languathby, Salkilde, and Soureby, advowsons of churches, fees of knights, and other free tenants, royal and other franchises customary in the county of Cumberland, with all their appurtenances and free customs, wards, reliefs, escheats, woods, moors, marshes, meadows, feedings and pastures, mills with their suits, ponds, waters, stews, fisheries, villeins, villeinages, their goods and issues, and all other things appurtenant to the said manors. Witnesses: Master Thomas de Hunsinghorpe, his chancellor; Sirs Geoffrey de Moubray, Patrick de Graham, John de Soules, Roger de Burton, Roger de Tulmanceston, John de Rokesleye, William de Dacre and Richard de Waldegrave, knights; William de Buroton, John de Insula, and others.

Oct. 28. Grant to Henry de Lacy, earl of Lincoln, that if Edmund, the king's brother, die leaving an heir within age before repaying the earl a loan of 4,000 marks, the sum remaining unpaid shall be raised upon the issues of the said Edmund's lands in the counties of Lancaster and Stafford, to the use of the earl, his executors or assigns. By K.

Nov. 7. Grant to John de Soulys of the custody, during minority of the heir, of the lands which Eva Lovel, deceased, held in dower of the inheritance of Hugh Lovel, in extension of a like grant to him of the lands of the said Hugh, tenant in chief, with the advowson of the church of the manor of Storketon.

Safe-conduct, during pleasure, for John le Parchemener of Louvain, John and Godfrey his sons, merchants of Brabant, on the same conditions as for the merchants of Almain above.

Nov. 4. Protection and safe-conduct for Buscarellus de Quisulfo, as the king's merchant of the household (tangnam familiarum mercatorum), his galleys, goods, men and servants, on condition that he take nothing into the dominion of the king of France, and do not communicate with the king's enemies or avow any goods but his own.

Nov. 6. Mandate to all sheriffs, bailiffs, and ministers, to make proclamation that merchants whose goods had been arrested by the king, have been released from arrest long ago, as it appears that some who owe money to merchants of Brabant, Holland, Zeal and Almain, aver that they cannot pay, because these debts have been arrested by the king; and to aid the said foreign merchants in the recovery of what is due to them.
