it was found that the last named commissioners had exceeded the bounds of their commission and had in error issued such order to the king's disherison and the prejudice of the said Otto, whereat the king was much displeased, as upon the death of the said Otto, the Islands, held by him for life of the grant of Edward I, ought to revert to the king. To prevent his own disherison, and loss to the said Otto, the king issued the above mandate.

Grant to Joan de Vileres, in pursuance of a grant to her for life, for her services to Isabella, the king's consort, of 100s. sterling yearly from the issues of the county of Ponthieu, then in the queen's hands, of which grant she has not yet had the king's letters—that she henceforth shall receive the said sum by the hands of the receiver of Ponthieu.
