licence also for the petitioners to transfer to the prioress and nuns of the priory that which pertains to them of the house of Wyrtthorp and the things and possessions of the same. By p.s.

Feb. 20.  Inspeximus of a writing of Hugh, prior of the church of St. Faith, Horsham, and the convent of the same place, dated in their chapter on Wednesday after St. Barnabas the Apostle, 1351, granting, in return for 50 marks in hand paid by Bertrand de Pardinas, a livery out of their house, to be taken by him for life wherever he shall stay, to wit every day a convent loaf, a servant's loaf and a barley loaf, a gallon and a half of convent ale out of the grantors' cellar, and from their kitchen on every day in every week of the year whether a day of white cope (capis) or other solemn days, at noon (nonam), as much as a monk in the convent takes for his supper, so nevertheless that on three days in the week he shall receive meat every time that the monks eat meat, with pottage and condiments, and for his supper he shall take meat or fish with their condiments (salsamentis), as opportunity shall serve or the other monks chance to have for dinner, except on the days of Lent, and likewise he shall take from the kitchen for his groom as much as one of the grooms of the prior has in the hall at noon and at supper. The said Bertrand shall eat in the prior's hall whenssoever he please and shall be served in all things as well as the other monks at the prior's table, and his groom, when he shall eat in the hall, shall be served as well as a groom of the prior's, and on such day as he and his groom eat in the hall they shall take nothing from the kitchen or the cellar. The said Bertrand shall have that chamber which is situated within the court, contiguous on the east side to the granary, to be repaired when necessary at the prior's charges, with free entrance and exit for his household servants as well as for other honest persons coming to him and for himself, and five cartloads of fagots for fuel at his chamber in winter, each cartload as much as two horses can carry, and five pounds of candles (candel' peris ') and straw for his bed four times a year. He is to have one robe of the suit of the steward, or 15s. every year, and 10s. for other necessaries, to be taken at the feast of St. Andrew the Apostle. And confirmation of the said grants, notwithstanding that they were made after the priory came into the king's hands on account of the war with France, and provided that the farm of the priory be not in any way diminished by reason of such confirmation. For 20s. to be paid to the king.

April 13. Ratification of the estate of Master Roger de Nassyngton as canon of Beverley and prebendary of the prebend of the Altar of St. Martin in the church of St. John of Beverley. By p.s.

Appointment of Philip de Whitton to arrest a ship, brought from Ireland to the port of Bristol by William Rossey, which is forfeited to the king for certain causes; and to keep it safely for his use until he give other order. By p.s.

April 15. Pardon to John Henry of Storteford of the king's suit touching this that he, on Wednesday after the Purification in the twenty-fourth year, in Canefeld, stole a horse of Robert de Boyton, worth 60s. whereof he is indicted or appealed; and of any consequent outlawry. By p.s.
