Aug. 15. Whereas the king lately granted, for life, to Ellis de Asshebourr, 760 acres of land in Killynyn, Brune, Staghnauwayn, Lesnekill, Stagheony, Killowan and Bothirecolyn, in the march of Leynester, Ireland, at a rent of 6l. 15s. at which the lands were extended, and afterwards on 26 October, in his sixth year, granted that he should hold the same in fee at the said rent, and subsequently, on 14 March, in his eleventh year ratified and accepted the said grants, petition is now made to him on behalf of Robert de Holywod, one of the remembrancers of the exchequer of Dublin, now tenant of the lands by feoffment of the said Ellis, shewing that, whereas Ellis by virtue of the grant continued in seisin of the lands until the eighteenth year, he was then removed from them by Ralph de Ufford, then justiciary of Ireland, by pretext of a mandate of the king for all lands previously granted by the king to any persons in Ireland to be seized to the king's hands, whereby, at the suit of Ellis, the king by writ commanded the said justiciary to permit him to have the said lands, on receipt of which writ Ellis, at the mandate of the justiciary by word of mouth, considering that he had been removed from the lands without due process re-entered the same without other warrant from the justiciary and held them for the life of the said Ralph and long afterwards and enfeoffed the said Robert de Holywod of the lands, who being now tenant thereof fears that he may hereafter be disturbed in his possession as well on account of the re-entry of Ellis as by an ordinance made in the time of Edward II by the king and council that no minister of the king in Ireland, while in office, should acquire any lands, and praying the king to provide for his security herein; the king, for 40s. to be paid him by the said Robert, has pardoned the trespasses done in this behalf and granted that he shall hold the lands according to the form of the feoffment, rendering the extent thereof at the said exchequer.
