Domesday Book, or the Great Survey of England of William the Conqueror, 1086; fac-simile of the Part relating to double counties, photographically at the Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton.

Domesday Book was printed verbatim et litteris during the 18th century, in consequence of an address of the House of Lords to King George III. in 1767. It was not, however, commenced until 1773, and was completed early in 1783. In 1866, Her Majesty's Government, with the concurrence of the Master of the Rolls, determined to apply the art of photomechanography in the production of a fac-simile of Domesday Book.

In Little Domesday Book.

Part I. (William the Conqueror to Henry VII.). 1865. (Out of print.)

Part II. (Henry VII. and Edward VI.). 1866.

Part III. (Mary and Elizabeth). 1867.

Part IV. (James I. to Anne). 1868.

The first Part extends from William the Conqueror to Henry VII., and contains autographs of the kings of England as well as of many other illustrious personages famous in history and some interesting charters, letters patent, and state papers. The second Part, for the reigns of Henry VIII. and Edward VI., consists principally of holograph letters, and autographs of kings, princes, statesmen, and other persons of great historical interest who lived during those reigns. The third Part contains similar documents for the reigns of Mary and Elizabeth, including a signed bill of Lady Jane Grey. The fourth Part concludes the series, and comprises a number of documents from the originals belonging to the Constables of the Tower of London, also several records illustrative of the Court of Wards, and the woods and manors belonging to Mary, Queen of Scots and James VI., created by their adherents in England, 1560-1
