June 15. Pardon to John de Raghton for felling two oaks of the king's vert and four dry oaks called 'wastes' in the forest of Inglewode, and carrying them away, whereof he is indicted as the king has heard.

June 17. Presentation of John Barler to the church of Westwell, in the diocese of Canterbury, in the king's gift by reason of the voidance of the archbishopric of Canterbury.

June 10. Whereas William de Everdon, clerk, who held in fee on the day of his death two tenements in the city of London, to wit, one in the parish of St. Alban, Wodestrete, with a garden adjoining in the corner of the lane by a tenement sometime of Roger Poyntel in the parish of St. Mary, Aldermannebury, and the other in the said parish of St. Alban in the same lane, whereof one end abuts on Wodestrete, in his last will and testament bequeathed these to Hugh de Colewyl clerk, his heirs and assigns, to find two chaplains to celebrate divine service daily in the church of St. Alban, one for the souls of William and of his mother, father and brother, and the other for the souls of Edward, sometime king, and the benefactors of William, and the heirs of the said king, each chaplain taking 6 marks yearly out of the said tenements, and also that there should be paid from each of the tenements 3s. 4d. yearly to the rector of St. Alban's to find for each of the chaplains offerings, a vestment, a chalice and a candle, and for the work of the said church 10s. yearly out of the tenement at the corner of which various sums the chaplains, John Bys and Philip White, and Thomas de Branketre, the rector of St. Alban's, are seised, (the rector taking 1 mark); as appears by inquisition returned into the chancery, and whereas the king has recovered the said sums against the rector and chaplains by process in the chancery because they were received in mortmain by them without his licence; the king grants the said 13 marks 3s. 4d. of rent to the abbey and convent of St. Mary Graces by the Tower of London in frank almoin, to celebrate divine service in the abbey, for ever for the souls of the king, Isabel, his mother, and his progenitors and heirs.

June 12. Whereas the king lately granted licence for William, abbot, and the convent of Quarre in the Isle of Wight, to enclose and crenellate divers plots of land on their own soil and make castles and fortalices thereon in a place called 'Fisshehous' on the sea coast and elsewhere in the island; he has now learned on the abbot's behalf that, whereas he has caused certain fortalices to be constructed at Fisshehous and at the abbot's mill and elsewhere in the island by virtue of the said licence, certain men of those parts, are scheming to hinder those works and often set themselves to lay low and destroy the works begun by the abbot at his mill; the king has therefore taken the abbot, monks and fellow-brethren, and the workmen and works of the abbey into his special protection, and has appointed Richard de Pembrugg and Theobald de Gorges, and deputies whom at the request of the abbot they shall appoint, to survey the works, maintain and defend the abbot, monks, workmen and works, and arrest all contrariants, during pleasure.
