Membrane 16.

Oct. 27. Whereas the king lately granted licence for William de Feriby, late parson of the church of Stokesleye, to alienate in mortmain 20 marks yearly of rent issuing from his lands in York, Hothum, Northcave, Melton, Feryby, Swanland and Elveleye, whereof a messuage in York is held of the king and the remainder is held of others, to five chaplains, to wit, two in the church of St. Peter, York, two in the chapel of St. James, Melton, and one in the church of Northferiby, to celebrate divine service according to his ordinance, and now the said William has prayed the king that, whereas he has granted the said 20 marks of rent—not being sufficient for the sustenance of five chaplains—issuing out of all the said lands, except the said messuage in York then alienated by him, to three chaplains only, to wit, one in the church of St. Peter and two in the said chapel, to celebrate divine service as above, he will be pleased to grant him licence to charge 2 messuages in York, held of the king in burgage, which he acquired after the king's said licence, with the said rent in place of the messuage so alienated; the king, for 40s. paid by the said William, has granted such licence.
