Notification for the better security of Alexander de Moubray, who lately came into the king's peace, that the king lately granted to him all the lands which he held on the day of the homage done to the king by Edward, king of Scotland, at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and directed the sheriff of Cumberland to take into his hands the manor of Boulton in Allerdale, which the said Alexander held on the day of such homage, but the king for certain causes had granted in fee to Anthony de Lucy, and to deliver it to him to hold as he held it on the day of homage. By K.

Whereas Thomas Bardolf, deceased, granted for life to Ralph Sefoul 10l., a robe and a saddle (cellam) yearly out of the manor of Rungeton, co. Norfolk, held in chief, and the king afterwards when the manor was in his hands by reason of the minority of John, son and heir of the said Thomas accepting the grant, confirmed these to him by letters patent for such minority, and whereas notwithstanding the confirmation the said Ralph, fearing that at some future time he may be disturbed by the king's ministers in receiving the same, has made petition to the king to provide for his security herein; the king, having consideration of his acceptance of the grant, has pardoned the trespass committed in respect of the same and has granted that the said Ralph shall have the 10l., robe and saddle yearly as well for such time as the manor shall be in the hands of him or his heirs by reason of the minority of any of the heirs, as when the same heirs shall be of full age. By p.s.

Whereas Henry [II] by his charter commanded that the abbot and monks of York should hold all his wood and land from the river Donne to the river called 'Syvena' as they held the same before it was a forest, for-
