April 16. Westminster. Whereas the king lately took into his hands among other alien priories the priory of Lewes and committed the same to the custody of the prior for a certain farm, and afterwards, on the petition of his kinsman, John de Warenna, earl of Surrey, setting forth that the priory was founded by his ancestors, that from the time of the foundation the priors paid no tribute without the realm save 100s. yearly to the abbot of Cluny of the alms of the founders, and that when Edward II. took into his hands the alien priories restitution was made to the prior of the lands of that priory, for causes shewn before the council, the king granted to the prior respite of all sums due for the custody until a date now past; and whereas the earl has now made petition for the removal of the king’s hands from the priory with the knight’s fees, advowsons and other appurtenances; the king desiring to safe-guard the liberties of the church and for the causes aforesaid, as well as at the renewed request of the earl, has restored to the prior the priory with its appurtenances and released all arrears of the said farm as well as the contingent due to him as well of the tenth for three years lately granted by the clergy as of the wool granted by the late Parliament at Westminster.
