May 1. Westminster. Appointment of Master John de Thoresby, king’s clerk, whom Robert de Artoys in his life time named as one of the executors of his will, to agree with divers creditors to whom the said Robert became bound by reason of his heavy charges while staying in the king’s service in Brittany. [Fædæra.]

May 9. Westminster. The king lately granted to John de Baunfeld that he should not be made sheriff or other minister against his will, and now he learns that the said John has been appointed collector of wool granted for his use in the county of Devon and put on various other of his commissions contrary to that grant. He has therefore granted at the request of Hugh de Hastynge that the said John shall not be put on any commissions to collect wool or to perform other duties for him, provided that he duly answer to him for what is now due in respect of such commissions.
