in the time of Edward I, that from William the advowson descended to Henry, his son and heir and from Henry to him as his son and heir, and he has presented to the church, void by the death of the said Reginald, John de Chaumbernoun his clerk, who was instituted in the time of the king that now is, and afterwards, on the death of the said John, John de Lester, his clerk, who has been instituted to the said church.

And the sheriff is charged to summon a jury a fortnight after Midsummer, at which day the jury is respite until the octave of Michaelmas, and on that day the jury find that the said Oliver Tracy was admitted and instituted to the church as plaintiff says above, that the commencement of the voidance thereof was by the death of the said John de Lester two days before St. George last. Asked how much the church is worth, they say it is worth by the year 120 marks.

Therefore it is adjudged that plaintiff recover his presentation and have a writ to the bishop of Exeter accordingly, and that he recover the value of a moiety of the church by the year because the term of six months is not yet elapsed and that defendant be in mercy.
