Whereas Roger Barent, knight, by charter, dated 1 July last, granted to the king the manors of Norton, Billeye and Trowe, co. Wiltz, to hold with all things pertaining to them for ever and afterwards Simon, bishop of Ely, William de Langele, parson of the church of Ryngewode, and Hawisia, wife of the said Roger, exhibited to the king and council a charter and an indenture, dated 1 March, 13 Edward III, whereby, as they assert, he granted to the bishop and William the whole manor of Norton Skidemor together with all his lands, rents, services and woods, in Trowe, Billeye and Emewell, in the same county, to hold with all the appurtenances, except the advowsons of the church of Norton and the chantry therein, to them, their heirs and assigns, for the life of Hawisia, upon this condition that they should discharge the said Roger of the sustenance of her and her children from the date of that writing; and, in case they should find the said manor of Norton Skidemor, and the lands and rents insufficient to provide adequate sustenance for them, as in clothing and all other things, and default therein might be found in the bishop and William, their heirs and assigns, by knights or others of her family, whereby Roger should be charged with more than is agreed above, it should be lawful for him to enter upon the same manor, lands, rents and woods and retain them without contradiction by any; wherefore they humbly prayed that inasmuch as they have been removed from the manor, lands, rents and woods, by William de Kelleseye, king's clerk, whom the king has deputed to receive seisin in his name of the manors granted to him by Roger, he would remedy this. The king, although the said manor of Norton Skidemor,
