On behalf of the executors of the will of Adam, late bishop of Winchester, the king has been given to understand that the guardians of the temporalities of the see, their under ministers and others intermeddling in the custody of the see during the voidance, by colour of their commission or letters made of the custody, have arrested goods of the deceased and detain the same under arrest, sealing the doors of the barns, houses, chambers, and other places, where any of these are deposited, not suffering the executors to administer the same; and inasmuch as it has not yet been found that the bishop was bound to the king in any debts or accounts at his death whereby his goods should be seized, and John, bishop of Hereford, has made mainprise and undertaken to satisfy anything which may hereafter be found due in the way of debt or account, the king commands them to meddle no further with the said goods, but to suffer the executors and those deputed by them to administer and freely dispose of the same; and, lest by detention the goods in any way shall be dilapidated or consumed, or the execution of the will delayed, be, by these presents, grants licence for the executors or their said deputies, whenever they or any of them, on view of these presents, raise any difficulties about the surrender of the goods, to administer the goods and dispose of them as seemeth best for the happy execution of the will.

Grant to Thomas de Swynnerton of an annuity of 40 marks at theexequer, until he shall be provided for as befits his estate out of wards, marriages, rents or other things.

Protection and safe conduct, for two years, for Henry le White of Lubyk coming to England with his ship, goods and merchandise.

Pardon, at the request of Richard, earl of Arundel, to John del Holt of the king's suit for felonies and trespasses at Liverpul and elsewhere on St. Valentine, to wit, 14 February, and of any consequent outlawries, provided that he stand his trial if any one will implead him and find security for his good behaviour according to the form of the statute.

Pardon, at the request of Peter de Brewes, king's yeoman, to the prior and convent of Penteneye for entering upon and appropriating the church of Little Abynton, of their patronage, which the king remembers that he granted them licence to appropriate, after the death of the late parson, before obtaining his letters of licence for the appropriation, and licence for them to retain the same.

Pardon, at the request of Bartholomew de Burghash, and for their own good service, to Hugh son of Robert le Norrays of Burtonheved and Robert, his brother, of the king's suit for all felonies and trespasses perpetrated by them at Lyverpull and elsewhere on the day of St. Valentine, to wit 14 February last, and any consequent outlawries, provided that they stand their trial if any will implead them and find security for their good behaviour according to the form of the statute.

Pardon in like terms to Richard son of Walter de Liveryngton for the death of Robert Derny.

The like to Adam Travers of Whistan for the death of Richard son of Alan de Rynacres.

Whereas Thomas Gobioun, Robert de Hagham and their fellows, appointed to take in the county of Essex a certain number of the 20,000 sacks of wool granted to the king by the commonalty of the realm in the