Walter de Bermyngeham, whom the king has appointed to be justiciary of Ireland, has letters nominating Maurice de Bermyngeham, parson of the church of Algerkyrk, and John son of William Hode of Flete as his attorneys in England for two years.

The chancellor received the attorneys.

Protection with clause volumus, for one year for the same Walter.

Whereas the king of late believing that he had the collation of the chapel of Cliderhou, within the castle of Cliderhou, gave the same to John de Wodehous, king's clerk, on evidence shewn before him and the council in divers Parliaments that the chapel was annexed to the church of Whalleye, which the abbot and convent of Whalleye hold as appropriated, he afterwards with the assent of the council restored the advowson of the chapel to the abbot and convent, and quit-claimed his right therein to them and their successors to hold the same as Peter de Cestria, sometime parson of the church, held the same annexed to his church before the appropriation of the church, as by the king's letters patent more fully appears. Nevertheless certain persons subsequently pretending that the chapel was not annexed to the church, but is a chapel in gross in no wise dependent to the church and the king was deceived in the restoration and release, have by that colour wearied the abbot with various expenses and heavy labours; the king mindful of a great quantity of money by the name of a fine received from the abbot and convent at the time when he granted the said letters patent, his devotion to the Mother of God in whose honour the said church is consecrated and his affection for brother John de Lyndeleye, abbot of the house, professor of the sacred page, with the common consent of his council and for a fine which the abbot has made, ratifies the restoration and quit-claim aforesaid, that the title of the abbot and convent may never at any future time be impeached.

Pardon to Andrew Righsho of Wyvelyngham for the death of Matthew de Naburn, killed at Wyvelyngham, as it appears by the record of Richard de Kelleshull and his fellows, justices appointed to deliver the gaol of the castle of Cambridge, that he killed him in self defence.

Grant to John de Wylyngbye that, whereas the king on 4 May, in his nineteenth year, granted him quayage for three years, for the repair of the quay of the port of his town of Saltfehaven, at the end of the said three years he shall have the same for the sixteen years following.
