MEMBRANE 31.

June 5. Pardon to Peter de Bovynclon, king's yeoman, of the king's suit against him for felonies and trespasses in England, and of any consequent outlawries. By p.s.

June 7. Whereas of late, on a suggestion by John le Smale, clerk, that John de Bredelyngton, clerk, master of the hospital of St. Mary Magdalen, Ripon, was dead, and that the collation to the hospital was in the king, the latter collated the same to the said John le Smale, he is now certainly informed that John de Bredelyngton is in good health and that the collation to the hospital does not pertain to the king. He therefore revokes the said collation and ratifies the estate of John de Bredelyngton therein on the collation of William, late archbishop of York. By p.s.

June 6. Although on account of the war with France a subsidy has been ordained by the king and council to be taken on aliens beneficed within the realm; the king for long service to Edward I, Edward II and himself and for his long stay within seas, has granted to Walter de Abian, king's clerk, that he shall not be charged with the same. By p.s.

June 7. Ratification of the estate of John de Kynewell (Gynowell, in the margin) as parson of Lanelthy, in the diocese of St. Davids, and prebendary of Bedowynd, in the church of Salisbury, Castre, in the church of Lincoln, Wilmencote, in the collegiate church of Tamworth, and Imbert, in the free chapel of St. Martin le Grand, London. By p.s.

June 3. Whereas John, archbishop of Canterbury, before the king in the Parliament, held at Westminster in the quinzaine of Easter, 15 Edward III, was impeached on divers articles concerning the disherison of the king and his crown, the annulling of the law of the realm, the hindering of his quarrel and sedition, contempt, despite, scandal, vituperation and setting aside of his person and of divers other things, pardons of his debts, alienations of crown lands, gifts of money of his treasure, custodies, marriages, bailiwicks, and other things damaging to him and his crown, charged against the archbishop in the time when he was chancellor, treasurer, councillor or other minister or envoy in divers realms as well in the time of Edward II as since, and the articles were put in suspense and left to be adjudicated upon until the Parliament at Westminster in the quinzaine of Easter, 17 Edward III, when the king granted that they
