Presentation of Thomas Dersynton of Stratford, parson of the church of Wokyndon Bishop's, in the diocese of London, to a mediety of the church of Tourveye, in the diocese of Lincoln, in the king's gift by reason of the priory of St. Neota being in his hands on account of the war with France; on an exchange of benefices with John Sauvage.

Licence, after inquisition ad quot damnum taken by John de Coggeshale, escheator in the county of Essex, for Robert de Burghcher to bring into cultivation a road in the field of Stanstede, between land of his on either side of the same, which leads from Halstede towards Colne and contains in length from an oak called 'Crokedehok' to the house of John atte Hacche 160 perches, 10 feet, of land, and in breadth a perch and a half of land; provided that he make another road on his soil for public use.

 Whereas the prior of Wymundham, who was held to the king in divers debts and accounts, has departed this life, the king, to save the goods of the priory from being wasted and for the more speedy satisfaction of what is due to him, has thought fit to take the priory into his hands and has committed the custody thereof to John de Wynkefeld, Peter de Ty, brother Henry Styuecle, monk of the house, and John de Lympenhowe, until such debts be satisfied or he give other order. It is not, however, his intention that the abbey of St. Albans, of which the priory is a cell, as is said, or the monks of that abbey, shall be prejudiced by this commission.

 Whereas the abbot and convent of Battle, at the king's request only and not of right, have granted a sustenance for life out of their house, commonly called Olla Regia, to Gerard Marchant, Queen Philippa's watchman, the king has granted that this shall not prejudice the abbey as a precedent after the death of Gerard.

 Grant to John son and heir of the king's uncle Edmund, earl of Kent, of all the lands of his inheritance, as well those now in the hands of others by the king's grant, if these shall happen to be recovered by due process of law, as those in the king's hands by reason of the nonage of the said John, to hold during such nonage without rendering anything for the same.

 Appointment, until Christmas, of the king's serjeants, Master John de Coventre and Robert de Northden to purvey flesh, fish and all other necessaries for the office of the great kitchen of the king's household beyond the seas, and cause the same to be brought thither; they making tallies in due form to those from whom such purveyances be taken, by which tallies payment shall be made by the treasurer at the exchequer for all purveyances taken before Martinmas at that feast, and for those taken afterwards at the morrow of Hilary.

 Ratification of the estate which Master Andrew de Offord, king's clerk, has in the church of Overe and in the prebend of South Neubald, in the
