Oct. 25.
Westminster. To the justiciary of Ireland and to other justices, sheriffs, mayors, bailiffs, ministers and all others as well in Ireland as in England. Although of late the king believing that the election in the cathedral church of Ferns, void by the death of the last bishop, of Master Hugh de Salut, canon of that church, to be bishop of that place and the confirmation of the election had been lawfully celebrated, with this exception that no licence to elect or royal assent to the election had been applied for or obtained, commanded the temporalities of the bishopric to be restored to him, yet because the pope by a provision in the lifetime of Adam, the said last bishop, has appointed friar Geoffrey of the Augustinian Order, master in theology, to be bishop of the said church after the death of Adam and has since consecrated him, as appears by a bull shewn to the king, in consideration of the laudable bearing towards him and his and the good service done by the same Geoffrey, he has ordered his fealty to be taken and the temporalities restored to him, on condition that he first make the usual renunciation of all words in the bull prejudicial to the king, and for the greater security of Geoffrey he has taken him, his men, goods and possessions, as well as his proctors, notaries and other men, into his special protection in prosecuting the same provision against the said Master Hugh and all other hinderers of the business in England and Ireland, so long as the said process shall endure. By K. and by p.s.

Westminster. Presentation of William de Latton, chaplain of the chantry for the soul of Bartholomew Baste in the church of St. Nicholas, Hereford, to the vicarage of the church of Lynton, in the diocese of Hereford, in the king's
