Pardon, for his good service in foreign parts, to Maurice Fitz Thor earl of Kildare, of the king's suit for all homicides, felonies, robberies trespasses in Ireland, whereof he is appealed, and of any conseq-outlawries.

Whereas on 19 July, in his third year, the king with the counsel : assent of the prelates and magnates in Parliament revoked a grant y viously made to Robert de Poleye, king's yeoman, of the assay of almage of cloths of worsted in the city of Norwich and elsewhere in county of Norfolk, which office Robert held by demise of John Pecok, w held the same by grant to him for life by Edward II, and caused lett patent made to the said Robert therein, which he then surrendered, to cancelled; he is now instantly entreated, as well on behalf of the work of such cloths of worstede as of merchants of the same of the said coun by petition shewn in his last Parliament, to accept and ratify the si revocation and with the assent of the same Parliament he has thought by these presents to accept, ratify and confirm the same, revoking a grants or commissions made by him of the office of the assay of such clot granting that workers may work and merchants sell such cloths of worsted without assay made thereof from henceforth. [Cf. Rolls of Parliament, II, pp. 204 and 409.]

Whereas Edward I granted licence for Walter de Langeton, the bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, to build a wall round the close of th cathedral church of Lichfield and crenellate such wall, and the preser king at the suit of Roger, now bishop of that place, and the dean an chapter there, shewing that, although after the enclosing of the same the have hitherto held the close at their will, so that no transit through th close of men, carts, wains or horses other than their own has been permitted, except with their licence, nevertheless certain of the town o Lichfield and the vicinage now claim to have a common transit througl the close, although the said bishop, Walter, of his own free will for th public benefit caused a new way to be made there leading from Bakenstret by the gate of the close, with bridges over the water there, sufficient fo the transit of men, carts, wains and horses, and praying that he would con firm the charter of Edward I, lately commanded John de Swynnerton, escheator in the county of Stafford, to make inquisition whether it would be to the damage of any if he were to grant the petition; and whereas by such inquisition it has been found that it will not be to the damage of any or a nuisance to the town to do this: the king by these presents confirms the charter, so that only the bishop, the dean and chapter, and the ministers of them and the church shall have transit through the close.
By fine of 20s. paid in the hanaper. Stafford.
