Whereas the king by covenants with his merchants, Walter de Chiryton and Thomas de Swanlond, granted to them, for two years expiring at Michaelmas next, all customs and subsidies due to him in England, the custom of wines only excepted, for 50,000£. to be paid him in each of the two years, in consideration of various aids and great loans freely made by them many times, from the time in which they have had such customs and subsidies at farm, to him in his great need and because they and the king's merchant, Gilbert de Wendlyngburgh, their fellow, have paid to him in advance the custom and subsidy of 12,000 sacks of wool for the expedition of important business, as by another indenture between him and them appears, he grants that these three shall have the customs and subsidies aforesaid for a further term of three years from Michaelmas, rendering yearly only so much as Walter and Thomas have rendered for each of the two years. It is the king's will that all covenants made between him and the council and the said merchants before this be faithfully kept and that Walter, Thomas and Gilbert, in the beginning of the three years, shall have full allowance in their farm of the entire custom and subsidy of the said 12,000 sacks of wool, to wit 48s. 8d. on every sack and that until they be fully satisfied thereof there shall not be made any assignment on their farm or the issues of the customs and subsidies for the expenses of the household or any other cause, assignments and payments of fees forming a fixed charge on the custom only excepted.

Further it is the king's will that Walter and Thomas have due allowance in their farm for three years of any surplus on their account of the farm for the two years rendered at the exchequer.
