Promise that if it happen that the said queen be pregnant, the said king shall take her back to his own realm, at the will of himself and his councillors; and if, at the will of the said king and his councillors, she stay until the birth of her child, she shall return to Scotland with her child without impediment; and if her child by the will of its father stays for a time in England and die during that time or anything sinister happen to him, the magnates of the realm of Scotland shall have and take back the child to Scotland. And William de Latymer, king's knight, has made oath on the king's soul that he will observe this promise.

Mandate to the sheriffs of Northumberland, York, Nottingham, Leicester, Northampton, Buckingham, Bedford and Hertford, to receive them honourably and meet them when they come to their bailiwicks, and offer to them the king's castles, manors and game in his parks and warrens and procure them honours and courtesies.

Letters of the king's son Edward of conduct and the form of other letters of magnates of England are written on the dorse of this roll. Turn the roll and you will find them.

Presentation of John de Wyham, king's chaplain, to the church of Helenden, void by the death of Ilger, late rector, and in the king's gift by reason of the voidance of the bishopric of Winchester; directed to E. bishop of Salisbury.

Grant to the king's yeoman Gilbert son of Hugh of the wardship of the lands late of Roger de la Mere in the county of Salop, tenant in chief, with the marriage of the heirs, saving to Joan late the wife of the said Roger her dower.

Mandate to William de Wendling, escheator on this side Trent, to give him seisin thereof.

Pardon, at the instance of John de Britannia, the king's son, to brother Nicholas called the prior of La Grave for the death of Philip de Leshawe, and of his consequent outlawry.

Grant, by the counsel of the magnates of the council, to Ellis le Marescal, king's serjeant, of the wardship of the lands and heirs of Adam le Bel, tenant in chief, saving to Yolande (Eolente) late the wife of the said Adam her dower; with the marriage of the heirs and of the said Yolande.

Mandate to William de Wendling, escheator on this side Trent, to give him seisin of the said wardship, saving the said dower, which he is to assign to Yolande after taking security from her that she will not marry without the king's licence.

Inspeximus and ratification of a demise by William de Wilton to Robert Doye and John his brother of the wardship and marriage of the heirs of Robert, lord of Hautham, and the wardship of their lands.