Grant to Roger de Saumfort that so long as he keeps the castle of Porcestre he shall be quit of 16½ marks a year which he used to pay at the Exchequer out of the castle-guard rents and shall have the said sum yearly for his maintenance.

Grant to John de Grey, in compensation for his losses in the king's service, of the wardship of the lands of Adam Paynel, tenant in chief.

Mandate to William de Weyland, escheator on this side Trent, to give him seisin thereof.

Power to R. bishop of Lincoln, H. bishop of London, and R. bishop of Coventry, brother John de Derlington, and William de Wylton, to make peace with the barons touching the questions and contentions between the king and them about the constitutions and statutes made at Oxford.

Pardon to Roger le Meu for the death of Isabel Tut, as above.

Grant to William de Valencia the king's brother, in part payment of the king's debts to him, that he may keep for himself, out of the fruits of this instant autumn of the lands late of R. de Clare, earl of Gloucester, which the king caused to be cultivated at his own expense, and likewise out of the issues of the manors of Rotherfeud, Blessingleye, Berdefeud, Subiry, Desening, Lakinkchithe, Walsingham, Welles, Warham, Wiston and Biscele arising on this side St. Giles, 500l. by reasonable appraisement, saving to the king the residue of the said fruits, and to Maud late the wife of the said earl the fruits in the manors of Deseninge, Walsingham, Welles and Warham, which she caused to be cultivated at her own cost, before the assignment of her dower. And if it happen that Gilbert de Clare, son and heir of the said earl, should not prove his age at the feast of St. Giles, whereby the wardship of his inheritance should belong to the king for the following year, the king grants to the said William that land to the value of 500l. a year in the first mentioned manors remain to him for another year from St. Giles if the king owe him so much, and if the king be not bound to him in so much, the excess shall remain to the king. And if the said fruits and issues and any part thereof by reason of the disturbance of the realm, be devastated or carried away so that he cannot collect and have them, the king wills that such default be allowed in his debt.

The like by letters close to the keepers of the honour of Clare; with an appointment of William de Haselbech to extend and appraise the said 500l. yearly of land as well from the issues of the said manors as the fruits of the said lands.

The like to the keepers of the honour of Gloucester touching the fruits and issues of the manors of Wiston and Bussele, so that if the said Gilbert do not prove his age, seisin of 500l. yearly of land shall remain to him in the said manors for a year; and they are to cause him to have easements of houses in divers places where the said fruits and issues are assigned to him for their safe collection.
