Calendar of Patent Rolls.

Whereas a certain ordinance or provision of peace has lately been made in the march of Wales between Simon de Monte Forti, earl of Leicester, Thomas de Clare, John son of John, Peter de Monte Forti the elder, and other barons, of the one part, and Roger de Mortuo Mari, James de Aldithele and their co-marchers, of the other part, for the observance of which the said Roger has given his son William as a hostage to John son of John, and the said James has given his son Nicholas as a hostage to the said Peter, subject to the king's acceptance of the provision; the king ratifies both the provision of peace and the delivery of the said hostages.

By K. the justiciary, the bishop of Worcester, John son of John, P. de Monte Forti. And the letter is duplicated.

Commitment during pleasure, by the counsel of the magnates of the council, to H. bishop of London, and Master Richard de Mepham, archdeacon of Oxford, and Roger de Northwode of all the lands, possessions and goods belonging to B. archbishop of Canterbury, which by occasion of the disturbance of the realm, have been unlawfully occupied by certain persons, consumed and scattered, to the great damage of the archbishop and his church; so that they cause the issues thereof to be collected and put in the church of Canterbury to be converted to the use of the said church.

Aug. 2. Canterbury.

Whereas some, by occasion of the late disturbance of the realm, consume the fruits and profits of churches and other ecclesiastical goods of alien clerks and other clerks adversaries of the king and his realm, dwelling without the realm; the king, out of regard for the liberty of the church has by the counsel of the prelates and barons of the council appointed H. bishop of London, and Master Richard de Mepham, archdeacon of Oxford, and Roger de Northwode to collect the fruits of the said clerks, as well in the diocese of Canterbury as in other benefices without that diocese which belong to the collation of the archbishop of Canterbury and to lay them up in Christchurch, Canterbury in the form provided by the said prelates and barons.
