Robert de Ros, Nicholas de Segrave and their fellows in the northern parts not to molest the above persons, but to let them and their men pass under the conduct of the said John.

Protection for Peter le Chamu, parson, of the church of Fakenham Magna, who proposes to reside at his benefices, as it is provided by the counsel of the barons that clerks willing to reside at their ecclesiastical benefices shall do so in safety.

Whereas Edward the king's son, for the security of peace in the realm, became a hostage, and now, thanks be to God, the said disturbance is assuaged, and for the liberation of the said Edward and the full completion of peace, the king has many times commanded John de Bailol, Peter de Brus, Robert de Neville, Enstace de Bailol, Stephen de Menil, Gilbert Haunsard, Ralph son of Randolf, Adam de Gesemuth, Robert de Stotevill of Acton and their fellows of the northern parts, to come to him and discuss these matters with him, and they have put off doing this, whereat the king is moved; the king commands them once more to come to him for this purpose to London, and for their greater security sends John de Burgo the elder to conduct them, and he has commanded John de Vescy, Henry de Hastinges, John de Eyvill, Adam de Novo Mercato, and other his faithful men in those parts to abstain from molesting them or their men if they come.

Commitment during pleasure by the counsel of the barons to Simon de Monte Forti earl of Leicester, of the castle of Porcestre, so that he answer for the issues at the Exchequer.

Mandate to Roger de Saunfort to deliver it to him.

Writ de intendendo to the tenants.

Whereas the king's kinswoman M. countess of Flanders has taken under her protection the king's merchants and their merchandise throughout her land and power, the king, by the counsel of the barons, has done the like by her merchants in his power; willing that their merchandise be laid up in churches or religious houses or other safe places, so that they may take them to their own parts and trade as they have been accustomed to do.

Simple protection until Easter for the abbot and convent of Fountains.

Jan. 2. Safe conduct from the twentieth day of Christmas next until Easter and for one year from that date, for Roger de Mortuo Mari, Roger de Clyfford, Roger de Leyburn, Hamo Lestrange, Hugh de Trubleville, the knights, esquires (scutiferos) and others going with them to Ireland with their households, harness and goods, so that after this term they may return safely to England and dwell in their own parts at the lands which they have of their inheritance and which they hold in their own hands.

The like for Roger de Mortuo Mari by himself.

Prorogation of the said safe conduct for the said Roger until three weeks after the said twentieth day after Christmas.

Protection for the men, lands and other possessions of the said Roger and others above mentioned, going to Ireland; which lands are of their own inheritance and which they hold in their own hands.
