Notification to the pope that whereas by the custom of the realm cognizance of causes over the right of patronage of churches belongs to the king and to the king's court, and Giiibert de Gant by reason of his wardship of the land and heir of Robert de Well who held of him in chief, lately had a cause in the said court against Robert de Tattershale and Thomas Crude over the darrein presentment of the church of Malteby, the same Gilbert by judgement of the said court recovered his presentation to the church against them.

Whereas Laurence de Hameldon, clerk of G. de Clare, earl of Gloucester, is having corn, firewood (buscam) and other goods brought by the water of Thames to London to make his profit of, the king commands all bailiffs and others to do no damage, &c. to last until Michaelmas.

Protection until Michaelmas, at the instance of Edmund the king's son, for William Paynel; provided that he do no damage in the meantime to the king or his lieges.

To M. countess of Flanders. Whereas the king lately granted to Edward his son all the goods and merchandise of the citizens and merchants of London who in the time of the disturbance in the realm were adversaries of him and his said son which had been arrested in Flanders by occasion of such disturbance, and requested her to deliver the same to his said son, and the said Edward afterwards prayed her to deliver of the said goods eighteen hundred pounds, sixty-six shillings and eightpence of Paris to Roger de Morteyn his knight, and whereas the king lately remitted to the citizens his indignation and rancour of mind against them whereby he requested her to deliver all such arrested goods to them, and she, because of the diversity of his said mandates has not done anything, the king, with the assent of his said son, requests her to deliver the said goods to the citizens or their messenger bearing letters patent sealed with their common seal.
