Protection for certain merchants from parts beyond seas, coming to the realm with wines, victuals and other goods for sale for the advantage of the realm, and putting into the port of Sandwich; and for their ships, the goods therein and their men.

Grant to Robert Pugeys of 20L a year at the Exchequer by the name of a fee, until the king provide for him more bountifully in wards or escheats.

Pardon, at the instance of Eleanor (sic) the king's daughter, queen of Scotland, to William de Skirewik for the death of William Fisse.

Pardon to William son of Hugh de Stokbrig for the death of John son of Andrew, as it appears by inquisition made by Richard de Middleton that he killed him in self defence.

Pardon to Walter de Wykes for the death of Phillip de Edinton and Christiana de Abbindon, as it appears by inquisition made by Martin de Littlebury that he killed them by madness.

Whereas the king lately granted to Warin de Bassingburn, for services to him and Edward his son, that he would provide for him in 100L yearly of land of wards or escheats, and afterwards granted to him the keeping of the forests between the bridges of Oxford and Stamford for life so that he should receive out of the issues thereof 100L a year by his own hand and render the residue at the Exchequer; and whereas it is testified before the king by Alan la Zuche and Robert Waleraund, sometime justices of the forest on this side Trent, that at the time when they had the keeping of those forests they were accustomed to render at the Exchequer 100L a year for the issues of the said forests, and for the demesnes, wards and other appurtenances of the castle of Rokingeham, except the corpus of the said castle, only 110L a year; the king has granted to the said Warin that for for his life he shall render residue of the issues of the said forests and for the said demesnes, wards and other appurtenances of the said castle except the said corpus, IQL a year at the Exchequer.

Pardon, at the instance of Anselm Basset, to Henry de Mirifenna for the death of Adam le Muner.

Pardon to Ralph de Cameys of the king's indignation and rancour of mind conceived towards him by occasion of which he was said to have done against him in the time of the disturbance sending against the king Henry de Childerle his knight and certain others of his household to Kenilworth in aid of Simon de Monte Forti, sometime earl of Leicester, the king's enemy; and acquittance to him and those whom he sent for this; and the king is unwilling that they be further molested.

Notification that O. cardinal deacon of St. Adrian's, the papal legate, has sold of the king's jewels at the king's request, seven ruby 'bales' and one small clouded (fum) ruby for 500 marks which he caused to be delivered to the king at Stratford; of which sum the king acquits him.
