1268.

Membrane 9—cont.

Mandate to the knight’s and free tenants of the said county of Richmond to be intendant to him. French.

Pardon, at the instance of Beatrice the king’s daughter, consort of John de Britannia, to William de Holande of the suit of the peace which pertains to the king for the abjuration which he made . . . . [unfinished].

Vacated because he did not have it.

Whereas Ralph, chancellor of Salisbury, and John, rector of the church of Chalk, proctors of the dean and chapter of Salisbury, for the tenth of the rents, benefices, manors, pensions, and other ecclesiastical profits according to their true value, have covenanted and promised to pay for the time of the papal grant of the said tenth, as well past as to come, 1,000L a year for the diocese of Salisbury, on condition that whatever they have already paid be included in that amount, and the said proctors have constituted the dean and chapter as principal debtors towards the king for the said amount; the king for their indemnity grants that the executors deputed by the pope, the legate and the king to collect the said tenth, shall cause the said tenth to be levied upon those by whom it is payable, with the arrears of the past, according to the form of the papal grant and to be paid over to the dean and chapter. And as to those who have already covenanted to give a fixed sum in the name of the said tenth, the king will cause such covenanted sum to be paid to the dean and chapter, as well for the time past in cases where anything is in arrear as for the future, and will cause whatever has been already paid to be allowed to them. And if any Italians of the papal court (Italian curiales) or others shall be refractory or rebellious in the payment of the said tenth, and cannot be compelled (compesci) by the said executors, the king will cause them to be distrained by sheriffs and bailiffs upon the requisition or denunciation of the dean and chapter; and if perchance the money cannot be levied even in that way, or the king has made a grace to any persons liable to the said tenth by releasing or compounding, such sums shall be allowed to the dean and chapter.

Grant to Osbert Giffard, of the wardship of the lands and heirs of John de Dyve, who held in chief, with knights’ fees, advowsons of churches, dowers when they fall in, and the marriage of the heirs.

July 19. Protection, with clause, until Easter, for John de Ardern, going Northampton to Ireland on the king’s affairs.

July 17. Whereas the king appointed the king’s clerks Masters Simon de Woodstock, Balden, Richard de Colingeburn, Guy de Taunton, and Roger de Lyums to tax ecclesiastical benefices [and] temporalities of archbishops and religious men in the diocese of Bath and Wells, and granted that they should receive from the said tenth 10L for their expenses, he commands the collectors of the tenth to pay the same.

July 20. Mandate to Guichard de Charon to deliver the castle of Rychemund Northampton to John de Britannia eldest son of the duke of Brittany, whose homage the king has taken for the castle and honour of Richemund and to whom he has given the said castle and honour as his right and inheritance.