in part payment of 700 marks by which he made fine for having the assessment made by W. sometime bishop of Norwich, for the tenth in the said diocese.

Appointment, during pleasure, of Robert de Estre, king’s serjeant, as taker of the king's wines throughout England; so that he answer as John de Swineford and other takers of such wines have been used to answer.

Gift to Master Simon de Baleden and Guy de Taunton of 20 marks for two horses; with mandate to the dean and chapter of Salisbury to pay it out of the first money arising from the tenth of the third year in the diocese of Salisbury.

Mandate to John de Swinesheved to deliver to the abovementioned Robert le Estre the office of taker of wines throughout England.

Nov. 1. Mandate to the dean and chapter of Wells to send 200 marks due to the king of arrears of the fine which they made with him for the tenth of the bishopric of Bath and Wells, by William de Herting and his fellows to be delivered in the wardrobe with all speed; as the king is in great want of money.

[Nov. 1.] To Edward the king’s first born son. Because the king is informed by the council and by others of the Exchequer that the manors of Wyset, Nettlested, Little Wykes, Hinton, Baynebrigg and Algargarth and the fair of Boston in the rent (in redd’) of Robert de Tatteshall and John de Vallibus are of the ancient demesne of the earldom and honour of Richemund, whereby they ought to be delivered to John de Britannia, according to the covenant made with the king touching the restitution to him of the earldom and honour of Richemund; the king commands him to cause the said John to be satisfied touching the said manors as he thinks best, saving the right of the king and any other.

Pardon, at the instance of Ralph de Croyndon, king’s clerk, to Henry le Engleys for the death of William son of Alan de la Wike; as it appears by inquisition made by Roger de Missinden that he killed him in self defence.

To the abbot of Tame. Whereas John de Everus, to whom the king gave 100s. of rent late of John Becard, killed when against the king in the battle of Evesham, with the king’s licence has surrendered the said rent to Peter Becard, son and heir of the said John; the king commands the abbot to pay that rent to Peter as his father used to take it.

Grant to G. bishop of Worcester, to whom the king is bound in 200 marks arrears of the yearly fee of 500 marks which he used to take at the Exchequer, that this sum shall be allowed to him in the fine which he made for the tenth of his bishopric. [Headed in the margin] Pro Wigorn’ episcopo, de pecunia ad sustentationem cane’.

Nov. 3. Acknowledgment that the dean and chapter of Salisbury, by order of the king, have paid to Richard de Ewell and John de Sutton,
