Inspecimus and confirmation of letters of W. archbishop of York, dispenser of the tenth of ecclesiastical profits granted to the king by the pope, and vicegerent of O. cardinal deacon of St. Adrian's, sometime legate in England, directed to the collectors thereof in the bishoprics of Salisbury and Chichester, to the following effect.

Whereas Master Sinicius, clerk of the pope's chamber, canon of Chichester, parson of the church of Donington, in the diocese of Salisbury, has been and is engaged in the service of the pope and special clerk of the king and for this reason has a special indulg of the Apostolic See that he may not be excommunicated or put under Interdict or suspended; out of reverence for the Apostolic See, and for the honour of the king whose special clerk he is, the king and the said archbishop will that he be immune from all exaction of the tenth of the said church and prebend. Dated at Westminster 5 Kal. November, 1268.

Grant to Master Thomas de Cantulupo, the king's special clerk, archdeacon of Stafford, going beyond seas, that William de Faukeburn and William de Farle, whom he has appointed in the king's presence as his attorneys, may make other attorneys in their place in his name.

The like to the following:—
Alexander Cumyn, earl of Boghan in the names of William de Lasceles and Gilbert de Kynros, for two years. Master Giles de Brideport, by Henry de Munden, clerk, and Walter de Clohale, his attorneys for three years.
Master Henry Prince, under the names of Adam de la More, chaplain, and Robert de Laverstok, clerk, for three years.
Imbert de Montferrant, under the names of Ivo de Elington and Gilbert Harang, for one year.

Whereas the king lately enjoined upon Master Thomas de Wymundeham, the treasurer, and the chamberlain and barons of the Exchequer to acquit the king by Richard de Ewell and John de Sutton, buyers of the wardrobe in the fair (nundinis) of St. Ives last past, towards divers merchants for cloths and other things taken from them to the king's use to the amount of 1,100l wherein the king is bound to the said merchants; grant to them that the whole money which can be had and collected in the realm by any bailiffs or others for any cause be paid wholly to the said Exchequer, so that the king may be fully acquitted of the said sum, and promise that the king will save them harmless in this behalf.

Notification that the dean and chapter of Wells, and the abbots, priors and clergy of the bishopric of Bath and Wells, have delivered in the wardrobe to Peter de Wyntonia, keeper of that wardrobe, on the morrow of Martinmas, 53 Henry III, by the hands of Richard de Baumfeld, canon of Wells, 133l. 6s. 8d. which they have promised to give to the king on condition that nothing further be exacted from them by occasion of the tenth granted to the king by pope Clement V, in the said bishopric, beyond the sum of 350l. 4s. 0d. a year during the said grant, except from the manors and profits of the bishops of Bath and Wells and Winchester in the diocese; whereof the king acquits them.
