March 8. Whereas the said Arnulf received in the said manor of the king's stock by the hand of the escheator to the amount of 27l. in respect of which he is bound to answer at the Exchequer; the king pardons him the said 27l. and will cause him and the said Reynold to have letters of acquittance of the said money when they require them.

March 11. Whereas Edward the king's son has acquitted the king toward the count of Bigorre of 2,000 marks wherein the king was bound to him as well for arrears of his fee at the Exchequer as because he released the said fee in perpetuity; grant to the said Edward that he shall receive by the hands of the treasurer, at the Exchequer of Easter next 500 marks so that he shall receive these there by Whitsunday, at the exchequer of Michaelmas following 500 marks, so that he shall receive these there by All Saints, at the exchequer of Easter following 500 marks, so that he have these there by Whitsunday, and at the exchequer of Michaelmas the remaining 500 marks, so that he shall receive these there by All Saints; the king has caused the treasurer to swear on the king's soul that he will fulfil the premises at the said terms, and has further enjoined upon him not to omit to make these payments for any mandate of the king. And if by chance any ward-ships or wardship fall in the meantime of the value of 2,000 marks to sell with which Edward will be content, he shall have them and account for any surplus or deficit at the Exchequer.

By K. and the whole C.

March 12. Whereas the king is bound to Domingo de Fougate, merchant of Bordeaux, in 70 marks for 20 tuns of wine taken from him by Walter de Capeles, then the king's chamberlain of London, and lately sent Philip de Arace, Queen Eleanor's clerk, to parts beyond seas, with 1,000l. which he received in the wardrobe by the hand of Peter de Wyntoma, king's clerk, keeper of the wardrobe, to redeem some of the king's jewels in those parts, and this done there remained with the said Philip 41 marks, which he would have paid into the wardrobe, where however the said Peter and his clerks of the wardrobe would not charge themselves with the said money; nay more, they caused a memorandum to be made in the rolls of the wardrobe that the said Philip had delivered the 41 marks to the said Domingo, in part payment of the 70 marks by order of the king; grant that the said Philip be quit of the said sum, and grant also to the said Domingo that the king will satisfy him of the remaining 29 marks at Whitsunday.

Notification that at the instance of Edward the king's son, the king has remitted to John de Henlee, yeoman of John de Vesey, the ransom pertaining to the king of his lands which Thomas de Sancto Vigore claimed to have of the king's gift by occasion of trespasses laid to the charge of the said John in the time of the disturbance and, which lands have been extended at 10s. a year, and have been surrendered by the said Thomas into the king's hands for 100s. yearly of land
