Although the king, like Edward his son, has every desire to cross the seas in aid of the Holy Land, yet because it does not seem to the prelates, magnates and commonality of the realm to be expedient or safe that both should be without the realm in these times; the king desiring that his vow should be fulfilled so far as he can and to take proper care of the realm by the counsel of the said prelates and magnates, commits the business of the cross with the sign of the cross to his said son, in his place; and for the fulfilment of the said business according to the vow of pilgrimage of the king and the said Edward for the exaltation of the name of Christ, the king confers upon him the twentieth granted through the realm in aid of the Holy Land, as well that collected as that to be collected. [Facetia.]

Whereas the king's brother Richard king of Almain (Alex'), to whom the king has committed the keeping of the priory of Heyham, during pleasure, on condition that he should substitute some one in his place to keep it, and he has substituted John de Cobbeham to keep it; the king, accepting the substitution, commands the said John to be diligent herein.

Whereas the king granted to William de Valencia, his brother, all debts wherein William de Lancastre was bound to the king, and those which he owed in the Jewry on the day of his death; and afterwards commanded Walter de Lyndeseye, one of the heirs of the said William, to be answering to the said William de Valence for his portion of the inheritance, and the said Walter has paid him a moiety of the said debts, to wit, 3,196l. 7s. 7d., the king, accepting this payment, entirely acquits the said Walter.

Acquittance to Robert de Ros for taking lately at the request of Roger de Clifford, justice of the forest on this side Trent, in the forest of Rokyngham twelve bucks to the use of Edward, the king's son, of the king's gift.

Exemption for life, at the instance of Edward the king's son, of Philip Lucyan from being put on assizes, juries or recognitions, and from being made sheriff, &c. against his will.

The like, at the instance of William le Rus, clerk, of Gilbert le Rus, Richard le Rus, his brothers, and Adam de la Bere.

Pardon, at the instance of Bernard Johannis, to Benedict de Dufford for the death of John son of William de Hornynge and William Gofeyr.

Pardon, at the instance of Bertram de Bovisvilla king's yeoman, to Nigel son of Alan de Weston for the death of William son of Reynold de Weston.

Exemption for life, at the instance of Robert de Rogate, king's serjeant, of Walter Hosee from being put on assizes, juries or recognitions, and from being made sheriff, &c. against his will.

Grant to Garcias son of Peter, king's serjeant at arms, and his heirs of the houses in Kripelgate, London, late of Robert de Derby,