MEMBRANE 12.

May 18. Whereas Gaillard de Durefort, lord of Duras and Blanquefort, Westminster. seneschal of Aquitaine, for certain necessities on account of the slender revenues of the castle of Bordeaux borrowed 700 francs of gold from John Bidardem of London, merchant in cloths and other merchandise, and the constable of Bordeaux at the instance of the seneschal promised to pay that sum from the first moneys from the great custom or other revenues of the castle in deduction of the fee or wages of the seneschal, and the king by letters patent under the great seal ordered the constable or his lieutenant to satisfy the said John or his attorney of that sum as above; and the said John has often sued the constable alone by virtue of the letters patent and the seneschal and constable jointly for payment of that sum according to the effect of the said letters patent and certain obligations under their seals, but can get no payment; the king, considering how the said John was at the time of the loan and still is the servant and actor of John Hende, citizen of London, to whom the king is much bound for immense help in necessity, and because he has surrendered the letters patent and obligations in Chancery for delivery to the treasurer of England for recovery, grants with the assent of the council that he shall have payment of the said sum from the moiety reserved to the king of the subsidy of wools, hides and wool-fells in the port of London at the hands of the said John Hende and Richard Whityngton, collectors. By p.s.
