Jan. 29. Whereas all the temporalities of the priory of Dunstaple, of the Westminster. foundation of the king's progenitors and of the king's patronage, were taken into the king's hands on 12 October last by reason of the vacancy of the priory by the death on that day of Thomas Mareschall, late prior, and remained in the king's hands on that account and by the death of John Aston, who was elected and confirmed prior but to whom the temporalities were not restored, until 27 January last, on which day the king ordered them to be restored to John Roxston, now prior; the king, in consideration of the great expenses which they have sustained on this account and ought to sustain on the repair of the church and houses of the priory, grants to the prior and convent whatever pertains to him of the temporalities.
