May 30. Inspecimus and confirmation of an arbitration by Richard, bishop of Lincoln, concerning divers strifes, controversies and discords between Master John Macworth, dean of the cathedral church of St. Mary, Lincoln, and the president and chapter of the same, as appears by an indenture tripartite. On 15 April, 1421, in an inner chamber of the bishop within his palace of Lincoln in the presence of the king the dean appeared in person and the president and chapter by Master John Percy, bachelor in laws, sub-dean of the church, their proctor, before the bishop sitting in tribunal and at the wish of the king all the canons residentiary also appeared except Sir Robert Trayes, then infirm, viz., Masters William Burton, precentor, Thomas Duffeld, chancellor, John Hagett, treasurer, John Southam, archdeacon of Oxford, Richard Hethe, archdeacon of Huntingdon, John Marschall, John Legburn, John Tevelby, Richard Ingoldsey and Thomas Baldyng. The bishop then declared his arbitration in writing with a protesting saving his episcopal right and jurisdiction, reciting the submissions of the dean and of Thomas Duffeld, chancellor, as proctor of the president and chapter, to his arbitration after examination by Master William Alnewyk and Richard Cordon, doctors of laws:

The dean shall be able every three years freely to visit the chapter, canons, vicars, chaplains of chantries and other clerks and ministers of the church, summoning them by letter or otherwise; so that before any act of visitation two canons residentiary shall be chosen, one by the dean and the other by the chapter, who shall assist him during the visitation and afterwards until the next; and if there be any dissension that party whose choice is impugned shall choose two more for nomination to the bishop, who shall appoint one. The dean shall
