1423.  MEMORIAL 13.

June 20.  Westminster.  Richard II, by letters patent, licensed Richard, late earl of Arundel, his heirs or executors, to give to the master and chaplains of the college within the parish church of Arundel, then lately founded by the said late earl, lands, tenements, rents, and advowsons, whether held of the king or of others, to the value of 202 marks a year, in recompense for a yearly rent of that amount given by the said late earl, under royal licence. By virtue of such letters patent, the said master and chaplains hold certain manors, lands, and tenements, to the value of 100 marks a year, by gift of the said late earl, in recompense of a part of the said yearly rent, so that lands, tenements, rents and advowsons to the value of 102 marks a year remain to be assigned. Now Thomas, late earl of Arundel, son and heir of the said Richard, sometime earl, granted to John Bohun, knight, William Hankeford, knight, John Wiltshire, knight, Robert Hulle, Nicholas Carrew, William Cheyne, William Ryman and Robert Jugler, and others since deceased, and to their heirs, the manors of Southstoke, Warneycamp, Clympesfold, Hasfold, Pyperyng, North Mundham, Notebourne, Angemaryng, and Hoghton, a messuage and 44 acres of land in Grofham, a messuage and 70 acres of land, called 'Lompealond,' in Porteseye, not held of the king in chief, nor exceeding the value of 100 marks a year, for the execution of the licence aforesaid and to fulfil his last will. The king, therefore, considering the premises, by advice of the great council, and for 100l. paid in the hanaper, licenses the said John, William, John, Nicholas, William, William, and Robert, to grant to the said master and chaplains and their successors in mortmain, the said manors of Southstoke, Warneycamp, Clympesfold, Hasfold, and Pyperyng, the said messuage and 70 acres in Porteseye, and two-thirds of the said messuage and 44 acres of land in Grofham; also the reversions of two-thirds of the said manor of Northmoundham after the death of William Hull, tenant for life; of two-thirds of the said manor of Notebourne after the death of William Okhurst and Lewis Hunte, tenants for life; of two-thirds of the said manor of Angemaryng after the death of William Scott, tenant for life; of two-thirds of the said manor of Hoghton after the death of John Lylye, tenant for life; and of one third of the said manors of Northmoundham, Notebourne, Angemaryng, and Hoghton and of the said messuage and 44 acres of land in Grofham after the death of Beatrice, countess of Arundel, tenant in dower; in full satisfaction of the residue of the said lands, tenements, rents, and advowsons, to the value of 202 marks a year.
