MEMBRANE 15d.

Feb. 5. Commission to W. bishop of London, Walter Hungerford, knight, Westminster. treasurer of England, Lewis Robersart, knight, Robert Rolleston, keeper of the great wardrobe, John Fray, Thomas Rolf, John Leventhorp the elder, Henry Barton, John Symond, and Walter Grene, or to two or more of them, including either Fray or Symond, pursuant to the statute of 25 Edward III, relative to weirs and kidels and subsequent confirmatory statutes, to survey and keep the water called 'le Leye' in the counties of Hertford, Essex and Middlesex, from the bridge of the town of Ware to the water of Thames.

MEMBRANE 14d.

Feb. 15. Commission to Richard Nevill, knight, warden of the West March Westminster. towards Scotland, to Peter Tilliol, Robert Louthre, John Skelton and Christopher Culwen, knights, and to Thomas Burgham, and the sheriff of Cumberland, and to any two or more of them, to hold inquisition in the county of Cumberland as to a certain water course, which runs through the lands and wastes of the lordship of Blakhall to the ditches of the city of Carlisle, and to the mill called 'le Castelmylne' which the citizens hold of the king in fee farm as parcel of the city. It is stated that certain malefactors have cut and broken the banks of the said water course so that the said ditches are dry, and the mill cannot grind for want of water, whereby the citizens have lost the profits of the mill, and the king's farm is in danger of being diminished.
