John Holland, late earl of Huntingdon, 1,000 marks a year out of the petty custom in the port of London; and by letters patent, dated 3 March, 4 Henry IV, the same king granted to the said John and Elizabeth, then his wife but since deceased, and to Hugh Veretot, also since deceased, monk and proctor in England of the abbey of Fécamp in Normandy, for the term of their lives and while the war with the French lasted, the custody of the possessions of the said abbey in England, except the manor of Bury then in the hands of the earl of Arundel, rendering yearly therefor at the Exchequer 400 marks, which 400 marks were to be paid over to the said John and Elizabeth as part of the previously mentioned 1,000 marks.
The next king, by letters patent, dated 16 July, 1 Henry V, granted to the same John and Elizabeth the said 1,000 marks, and 301l. 4s. 4d. in part payment of the same out of the issues of the said possessions by the hands of the farmers, bailiffs, or occupiers, resort to be had to the said custom for any deficiency. Afterwards by letters patent dated 20 October, 1 Henry V, the custody of the said possessions, except as before excepted, was granted to the same John and Elizabeth and to William Peixum, clerk, and John Malwayn, clerk, since deceased, for life, rendering 85l. 9s. besides the said 301l. 4s. 4d. viz. 400 marks old farm, which the said John and Elizabeth had by the grant of Henry IV, and 34l. 11s. which they had by grant of Henry V, out of the same possessions, in deduction of the like amount out of the possessions of the priory of Wotton, co. Warwick to maintain divine service there; the said 301l. 4s. 4d. to be allowed them yearly at the Exchequer. Then the said 85l. 9s. were assigned to Joan, queen of England, as part of her dower, and, afterwards, on 18 December, 1 Henry VI, the above named grants were confirmed, and since the said 20 October, 1 Henry V, the said John Cornewall has had the said revenues and has duly paid the said 85l. 9s. to the said queen up to Midsummer, 7 Henry VI. But now by virtue of the statute issued in the Parliament held at Leicester in 2 Henry V, and of the peace made between the present king's father and grandfather, the estates of the said John Cornewall, Elizabeth, William and John Malwayn, in the possessions of the said abbey of Fécamp, are said to have determined. The king, therefore, on surrender by the said John Cornewall of the said grant so far as it relates to the said 400 marks and 301l. 4s. 4d. and in consideration of the terms of the grant of 16 July, 1 Henry V, by advice of the council, has granted to him the said possessions of Fécamp, except as before excepted, from the said Midsummer day for term of his life, as fully as any abbot of Fécamp held them, as satisfaction to the extent of 301l. 4s. 4d. of the said 1,000 marks a year, rendering so long as the possessions are in his hands, 85l. 9s. a year to the said queen for her life, and the same at the Exchequer after her death, should she die while he is in possession.
Release to him also of the mesne profits up to the said Midsummer day, 7 Henry VI.
