celebrate as above for his soul and the souls of Benedict and Alice, his father and mother, Maud his wife and Joan his daughter; whichmessuage is situated between the tenement of William Warner of Fotescrey, co. Kent, and the garden of John Worsop on the north and a tenement pertaining to the said church, sometime of Adam Godman, on the south, whereof one end abuts on the royal way of 'Colmanstrete' towards the east and the other on the garden of William Abram towards the west; and the said gardens are situated between the tenement of William Taverner called 'Le Belle' and a tenement pertaining to the hospital of St. Thomas of Acon, London, and a tenement of Thomas Carter on the north, and a tenement pertaining to the said church, sometime of Nicholas Brembre, knight, on the south, whereof one end abuts on the same royal way towards the west and the other on the garden of the said church, sometime of the said Nicholas Brembre, towards the east; and that William Grapefige, sometime citizen of London, on Monday after St. Dunstan, 7 Edward III., bequeathed without licence to Walter his son 3 messages in the said parish of St. Stephen by the name of all the rents and tenements which he had in London, except 2 shops with solars previously bequeathed to Christina, Walter's daughter, and ½ mark of rent previously bequeathed to William le Clerk, to hold to Walter, his heirs and assigns, so that he and they should sustain therefrom a chaplain to celebrate divine service daily in the said church for the souls of William and his parents; of which three messages, one called 'Le Cok' and another called 'Le Garland' are situated together between the tenement sometime of Stephen Frankley on the south and the tenement sometime of Thomas Mestill on the north, whereof one end abuts on 'Colmanstrete' towards the east and on a garden sometime of John Hertwell, formerly citizen and mercer of London, towards the west, and the third message, sometime of John Kendale, is situated between a tenement pertaining to the church of St. Denys on the south and a tenement pertaining to the chantry of John Essex on the north, whereof one end abuts on the royal way towards the east and the other on the garden of Edward Welles towards the west; and that John Essex, citizen and draper of London, on Thursday after the Translation of St. Thomas the Martyr, 35 Edward III., bequeathed without licence after the death of Alice his wife a tenement with houses and gardens in the said parish of St. Stephen, sometime the house of Hugh Blount and Robert Syward, from whom he purchased the same, and 10s. of quit rent, which he purchased from Philip Gentill, issuing from a tenement now of William Hardewyk, in the parish of St. Laurence, Old Jewry, for the use of a chantry and to find a chanpell to celebrate in the said church of St. Stephen, for the souls of John and Alice and their fathers and mothers; which tenant with houses and gardens is situated between the tenement sometime of John Kendale and the garden which Edward Welles, mercer, now holds, on the south, and the tenement sometime of Richard Strengham and the garden of Adam Godman on the north, and towards 'Colmanstrete' between the tenements of William Warner, Walter Pygyn and Richard Strengham towards the east and the inn called 'Le Beer' towards the west; and that Adam Godman, sometime citizen of London, bequeathed without licence on 13 August, 1363, 37 Edward III., to Alice his wife for life all his tenements and shops on the northern side of an 'alei' called