Translation of St. Augustine and two days before and two days after, a market in the isle of Thanet and a market at Stonores, a fair at Canterbury from the third day before SS. Peter and Paul for six days, a fair at the manor of Lengham, co. Kent, on the eve, day and morrow of St. Augustine; and the abbot and convent have suffered from the ambiguity of the said charters:—the king has granted to them and their successors that they, their men and tenants be quit of toll, pavage, passage, lastage, stallage, tallage, carriage, pesage, picage, terrage, tronage, pontage, chominage, ankerage and warnage and of doing suit at county, shire and hundred and last of hundred; that the abbot and convent have all goods of their men and tenants outlawed, fugitive and condemned, and all goods of the same confiscated, returns of all writs and commands of the king and the executions thereof, and the return of all bills and commands returnable before any justices, officers and ministers of the king and the executions thereof, within their possessions by their bailiff, and all fines, amerceaments, ransoms, issues forfeit and forfeitures, year, day, stripment, waste, deodands, treasure-trove and wreck of sea and all that could pertain to the king therefrom and from murder, escapes of felons, rapes of women and felonies of all their men and tenants, and the amend and assize of bread, wine, ale and all other victuals, and of measures and weights and other things pertaining to the office of the clerk of the market of the household, and view of frankpledge in the manor of Kenyngton alias Conyngbroke: grant also that they may hold before their steward or bailiff in the 'Hygtecourte' within the monastery every three weeks all pleas of account, debt, detention of charters, writings, muniments and chattels, taking and detention of beasts or chattels, trespasses in contempt of the king, conventions, contracts and personal actions arising in their possessions, and commit to prison the guilty and hear and determine such cases and make executions thereon; grant also to them of cognisances of all pleas of contracts and actions real, personal and mixed, and all other pleas; and of free warren in all their demesne lands in Kent, and of all liberties whatsoever granted to them hitherto.

By K.

Membrane 2.

Grant for life to William Willis, chaplain of the chantry of St. Mary within Wodestoke manor, of 10 marks yearly from the revenues of the manor, and all other profits pertaining to the chantry; on the petition of him and William Aston, like chaplain, shewing that they had 20 marks by letters patent of the king and 5 marks thereof have been resumed at the parliament held last at Leycester.

Vacated because otherwise in the thirty-first year.

Pardon to William, bishop of Winchester, of all fines, amerceaments, issues forfeit, scutages, tenths, debts, accounts, prets and arrears of farms and accounts, and all actions and demands which the king could have against him herein, and all escapes of felons, chattels of felons, fugitives, outlawed and felons of themselves, deodands, wastes, impeachments, articles of eyre, destructions and trespasses of vert and venison and sale of wood, whereof the penalty is fine or forfeiture.

By K.

Grant for life to the king's clerk, John Faukes, clerk of Chancery, of the office of clerk of the Parliament, taking yearly from Michaelmas,