Dec. 8. Westminster. Commission to the bailiffs for the time being of Scarborough, upon information by the burgesses, that although they hold the said town with its customs, tolls, rents, services, &c., at fee farm for 60l. a year, which farm for the most part arises from fish and herrings caught at sea and brought into the town for sale (one of every hundred large fish and a hundred of every last of herrings being due to the castle, besides toll and customs which have been levied in times past on all fish and herrings), yet certain mariners, scheming to annul the said farm and defraud the king of the said toll and customs, go to meet the fishing ships as they come to Scarborough between Raeylf and Playnburgh and forestall the fish, so that the vessels are brought back empty, to the king's prejudice and the burgesses' great loss, and contrary to the statute touching forestallers. The bailiffs are to survey the fishing boats, convey those laden with fish that want to come into Scarborough, and to seize those who with oars and boats are about to forestall as aforesaid, and bring them into the said town, there to be detained till order is given for their punishment, and to certify from time to time their proceedings herein.

Dec. 7. Westminster. Ratification of the estate which the king's clerk, Hugh Yonge, has, by collation of Adam, bishop of St. Davids, in the precentorship in the collegiate church of Aberghwyll and prebend of Lannynyth annexed thereto.
