Thomos atte Wod of Gislond, William Pepir of Lodne, Theobald Verdoun of Wotton, Robert Mauclerk of Mundham, Thomas Jerbrigge and Roger Boule of Carleton entered her free warren at Sutton, co. Norfolk, hunted therein, fished in her several fishery there, carried away fish, besides goods, also hares, rabbits, pheasants and partridges, depastured corn and grass at Catfeld, where they besieged some of her tenants and bondmen in their houses with no small number of armed men and archers, and assaulted and imprisoned others at Sutton, Suthfeld, Felmyngham, Hardelee and Bergh, co. Norfolk, extorting fines from those at Sutton, Catfeld and Suthfeld, and so frightening some that they lost their senses.

For 20s. paid in the hanaper.

Commission to Reginald Malyns, Edmund de Stonore, sheriff of Oxford and Berks, John Hereford, serjeant-at-arms, John Gibbes, mayor of Oxford, Thomas Somerset and John Shawe, bailiffs of Oxford, John Harwedon and Thomas Barentyn, reciting that John de Dodeford, prior of St. Frideswide's, Oxford, has signified to the king that certain fellow-canons of his, viz. John Walyngford, John Ryal, Richard Montagu and Richard Brakkele, have seized and put into chains his steward, deputed in his absence, Richard Segworth, abstracted the keys of his chamber and carried away the goods there found, broken the chests for the treasure and jewels of the priory, disposed of their contents at pleasure, and by main force prevent his administration of the house,—to arrest and deliver to the said prior the said offenders to be chastised according to the rule of their order, and to release Richard de Segworth from prison, and to assist the prior with force against the disobedient, causing goods unjustly removed to be restored.

Commission to the bailiffs of Canterbury, and to John Tebbe, William Preston and Thomas Oteryngton, citizens thereof—on information that certain malefactors and disturbers of the peace, citizens and other inhabitants of the city and suburbs, have assembled in great numbers and stirred up strife, debates and contentions therein, sowing great discord amongst the citizens, and so obstinately holding together that they will not in any way submit to justice, but combine by insurrection to resist the king's ministers in the execution of their office, and the said bailiffs—that if by inquisition duly taken they are satisfied what persons have done these things, they are to have them arrested and committed to custody until further order, and to certify their names to the king.
