for the souls of the late king, his consort and children, and William Scot and Alice his wife, in confirmation of letters patent dated 2 March, 25 Edward III, granting to the said William licence to grant the advowson thereof, which was held of John of Gaunt (de Gundaro) the said king's son, then earl of Richmond, as of the honor of Richmond, to the said prior and convent in mortmain for that purpose, but although they acquired the advowson in the late reign from the said William, yet the licence, so far as it relates to the appropriation, is not yet executed.

Remission to John, bishop of Bangor, and his successors—upon his petition alleging that as the see of Bangor, of the foundation of the king's progenitors, has been for twenty-six years and more without a church to the great disgrace of the see, and as in its relief he has newly begun a church whereof one half is constructed, which he is unable to complete, both on account of the slenderness (exilitate) of his benefice and because he is indebted to the king in divers subsidies and issues current for non-payment thereof—of all such subsidies and issues aforesaid, so that they may be spent upon the construction of the church.

Vacated by surrender and cancelled, because the king granted to him a remission of all subsidies and tenths due before the grant of the foregoing, 6 November, 11 Richard II.
