May 10. Grant to Mary, late the wife of William de Stapulton, and her heirs and the tenants of the manor of Edonhale and their successors, of common of pasture in the forest of Ingwelwode like the men of Penruth, Raghton and Gaytscales, paying to the king and his foresters there yearly 34s. and ten skeps of oats, it being found by inquisition of William de Neyll, keeper of the forests beyond Trent, that it is not to the prejudice of the king or others; in consideration of the heavy charge they have, as the said manor is worth no more than the said sum, and cannot support it on account of the war with the Scots.

By p.s.

Vacated by surrender and cancelled, because by inquisition returned into Chancery it is found that the said sum of 34s. and 10 skeps of oats have been paid to the foresters for their maintenance and not to the king nor his progenitors, whereupon the king has granted to the said Mary the common aforesaid under another form, 5 February, 13 Richard II.
