1389.

Exemption, for life, in consideration of his long continued labour in divers offices in the service of the late king and the king, and of his great age and debility, of Thomas de Brantyngham, bishop of Exeter, from attendance at the Parliaments or councils of the king, from which he is hereby wholly excused. [Federa.]

By p.s.

MEMBRANE 18.

Grant, for life or until further order, as his fee on being retained for life to serve the king, to Edward Dalyngrugg, knight—who with Thomas Wysebch, chaplain, was appointed by letters patent (recited) of 21 January last to the custody of Wilmynton priory at the rent of 100 marks a year, he and the said Thomas having now offered 110 marks a year for the custody—of 100 marks a year from the same, payable by his own hands whilst it is in the king's hand and from the Exchequer when out of the king's hand; provided always that he answer the king for the remaining 10 marks of rent for the custody.

By p.s.

Pardon to Rothergh ap Jevan Lloyd of Cardiganshire in South Wales, who was indicted for divers felonies and trespasses, for which before the earl of Arundel, then justice of South Wales, he made a fine of 300l. of 200l. thereof and aftermarriage of the remainder at the exchequer of Kermerdyn, viz.: 50l. to be paid at Michaelmas, 50l. the following Michaelmas, and the rest within the following five years at the rate of 20l. a year.

By p.s.

Aug. 27. Westminster.

Ratification of the estate of William de Ledes in the prebend of Prustcombe in the collegiate church of St. Cross, Crediton, lately held by Master John Brian, deceased.

By p.s.

Grant—upon the petition of John, bishop of Leighlin, praying that as his whole diocese is surrounded and destroyed by the king's Irish enemies, so that he has no place where he can go or stay or lodge, the king would grant him Gabreacheston, co. Dublin, near to the March, [the town] of Othothell, an Irish enemy of the king, parcel of the temporarities of the bishopric of Killalo, in the king's hand by the voidance of the late bishop, his successor, the present bishop of Killalo, being a pure Irishman, of a hostile nation, living amongst the king's enemies and adhering to them and not regarding the king's laws; or mandates to the said bishop of Leighlin of the said place, so long as it remains in the king's hand for the cause aforesaid. [Federa.]

By p.s. [5180.]

Mandate for livery in pursuance, directed to the person supplying the place of the judiciary, the chancellor, keeper of the great seal and treasurer and barons of the Exchequer in Ireland and other the king's officers and ministers there.

Presentation of Robert Gerveys to the church of Stokke in the diocese of Salisbury, in the king's gift by reason of the minority of Joan, daughter and heir of John Walsh, tenant in chief.

Grant, for life without rent, in consideration of his seven years' service in divers offices as well as in the wars in Ireland, to John de Shrygsley, esquire, of the lands, as well those waste as others, in Droghda, late of Reginald de Irpe, deceased, which have escheated to the king and are extended at 40s. a year.

By p.s.