Membrane 7—cont.

1393.

Stephen de Betenham, Stephen Paytceyn and William Euyry, and the heirs of William Makenade, the last named, after the others, on the decease of Thomas Chiche, had released to him all their interest therein, by his writing granting it to Gilbert Manfeld, citizen of London, the aforesaid Thomas Brokhull, Stephen and Stephen, for the life of him the said William Makenade; the king now grants to the last named licence to grant the reversion after his death to the said prior and convent and their successors, for the support of a monk to celebrate divine service in Rouchestre priory, and other services, for the souls of William Makenade, his parents and friends.
