1397.
Exemption, for life, of the king's knight Richard Waldegrave from being put on assizes, juries, inquisitions, attainders or recognitions, and from being made sheriff, escheator, coroner, justice of the peace or of labourers, collector of tenths, fifteenths or other subsidies, arrayer of men-at-arms, hobelers or archers, customer or weigher of wool, hides or wool-fells, or other officer of the king, against his will.

By K.

William, late archbishop of Canterbury, and his executors after his death having been in possession of the lordship of Tonbrugg, co. Kent, by reason of the minority of the son and heir of the earl of Stafford, until recently, when on the suggestion to the king that Thomas, now archbishop of Canterbury, had right thereto, the executors were put out of possession, and it was ordered that it should remain in the king's hand until he should be further advised—the king hereby releases his whole estate in the premises to the said executors, and grants to them full restitution of the same with the mesne issues.
